

TO & E

SURFACE TO AIR SISTER PLATOON

The longer the war drags on, the more money the mercenaries stand to make. To stay competitive and enticing to its employers, the NNO continues to enrich its catalog of employable mercenaries and vehicles, the latter now reaching for the skies in the literal sense.

Led by Alex, the NNO's burgeoning airforce has access to nearly any aircraft they have the money to buy or the engineers to fix up. While small in number, they certainly don't have the small pricetag to match.

PLATOON ADVANTAGE: DISPROPORTIONATE RESPONSE

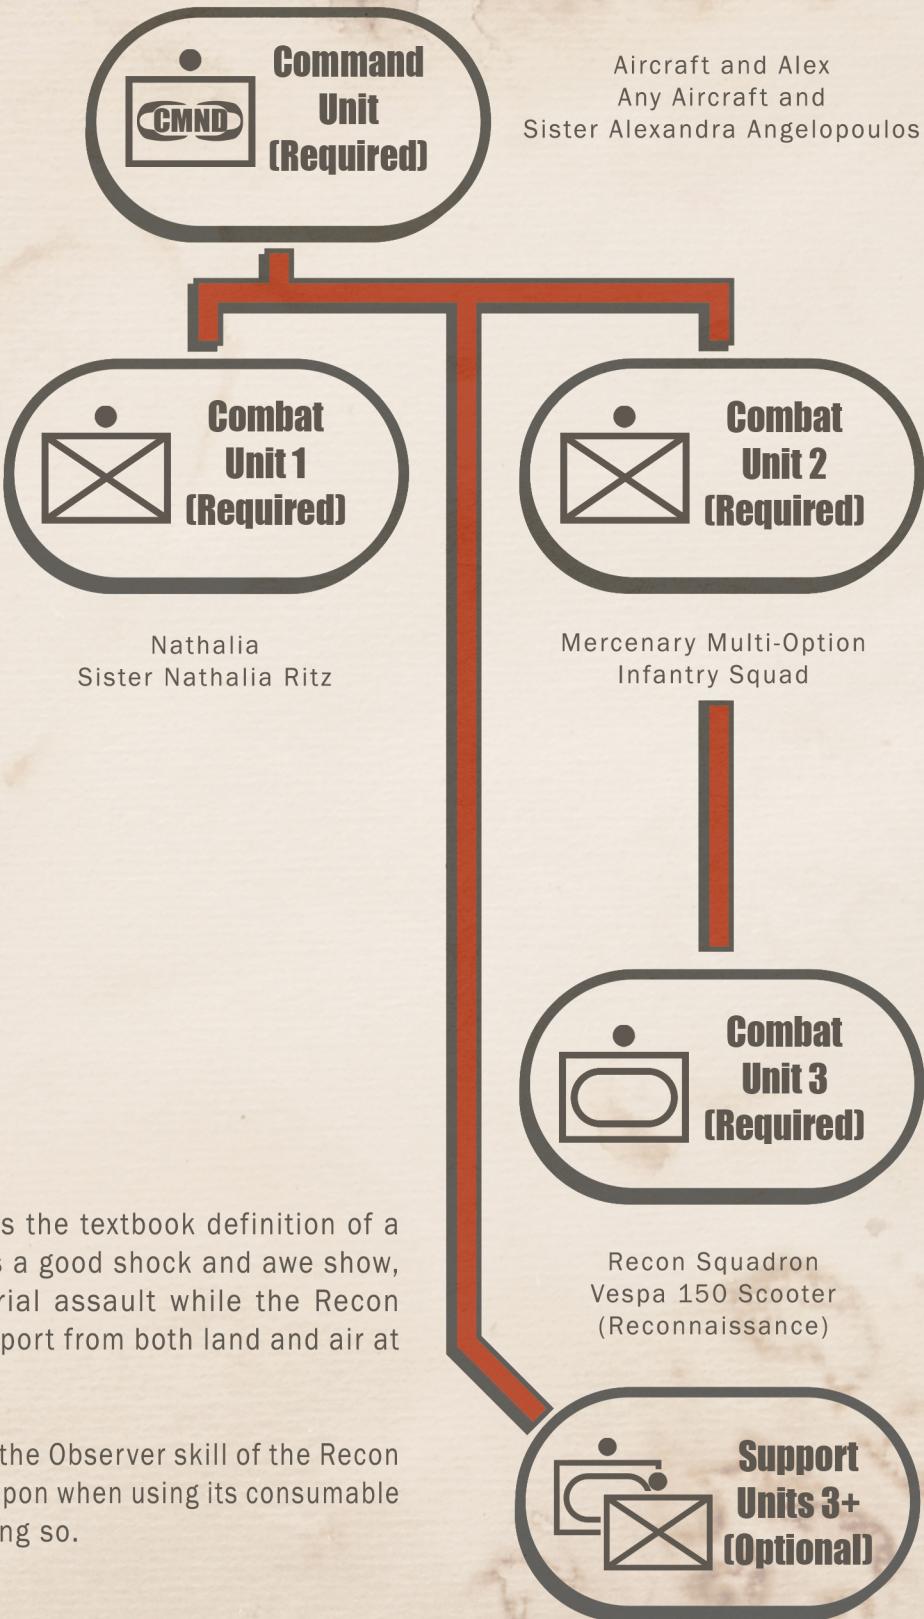

The Surface to Air Sister platoon is the textbook definition of a force multiplier. Never one to miss a good shock and awe show, Nathalia brazenly braves the aerial assault while the Recon Squadron calls in pinpoint fire support from both land and air at blistering speeds.

The Aircraft piloted by Alex can use the Observer skill of the Recon Squadron as if it was an artillery weapon when using its consumable weapons, ignoring range while doing so.

SUPPORT UNITS

Usually mercenaries work for one of the main Blocs rather than fighting for their own causes, leaving those Bloc forces to provide the needed support. Following rampant destabilization of the Bloc forces secondary to the unprecedented Mythos uprisings around the world, the NNO finds itself more and more having to provide its own support on the battlefield.

Given the flexibility of the Recon Squadron, the addition of a Heavy Mortar Squad or a Meatgrinder would not be out of the question for added effect.

Aircraft and Alex
Any Aircraft and
Sister Alexandra Angelopoulos